GUIDING PRINCIPLES

Chesterfield is a leader in shaping not only a vision, but a reality, of the metro-Richmond area.

County employees and citizens are shareholders in our progress and serve as trustees for those values held dear; fairness, integrity, diversity and harmony, lifelong learning, appreciation of history and culture, and steadfastness in long-range commitments.

Our community remains committed to providing a safe and secure environment in which to live, work, and raise a family.

Business has a major role in providing positive growth and a balanced community.

We are committed to our young citizens. With boundless potential for positive contribution, their education, development, and social growth are vital to our progress.

Employees, businesses and citizens find Chesterfield a place where imagination can flourish, new things can be tried, risks can be taken, freedom of expression is encouraged and human initiative and potential are unleashed.
